Foreword

Our Agreed Syllabus is the result of the hard work of our consultant and the joint working party made up from members of both SACREs and members of other interested parties. This group was set up to produce an Agreed Syllabus to reflect the changing world in which we live.

By the careful use of our Syllabus we believe that children in our places of learning will gain more knowledge and insights to help them live as responsible members in our society. RE for 2021 in this Agreed Syllabus is an innovative piece of work and heralds exciting times for our young people.

Introduction: RE in Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire 2021-2026

The aim of Religious Education in Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire is that pupils will know about and understand a range of religions and worldviews. They will express ideas and insights of their own into the significant human questions which religions address, gaining and deploying the skills needed to study religion.

Religious Education in Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire schools contributes dynamically to children and young people's education in schools, provoking challenging questions about human life, beliefs, communities and ideas. In RE pupils learn from religions and worldviews about different ways of life in local, national and global contexts. They discover, explore and consider many different answers to questions about human identity, meaning and value. They learn to weigh up for themselves the value of wisdom from different communities, to disagree respectfully, to be reasonable in their responses to religions and worldviews and to respond by expressing insights into their own and others' lives. They think rigorously, creatively, imaginatively and respectfully about their ideas in relation to religions and worldviews.

The National Curriculum states the legal requirement that:

“Every state-funded school must offer a curriculum which is balanced and broadly based, and which:

- Promotes the spiritual, moral, cultural, mental and physical development of pupils at the school and of society, and
- Prepares pupils at the school for the opportunities, responsibilities and experiences of later life.”

And:

“All state schools... must teach religious education to pupils at every key stage... All schools must publish their curriculum by subject and academic year online” (DfE National Curriculum Framework, July 2013, page 4).

This new RE Syllabus for Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire pupils establishes what shall be taught in RE in Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire schools providing teachers with practical support and guidance about how to teach RE effectively.

The 2021 Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire RE

Agreed Syllabus follows the structure of the DfE's National Curriculum (2013), so that RE has subject documentation which parallels the subjects of the National Curriculum. RE is described in terms of purpose, aims and programs of study for each age group. The Agreed Syllabus also takes the opportunity to give clear guidance on RE in the early years and RE for students aged 14-19. As RE is a core subject of the curriculum for all pupils we have followed the ways in which English, mathematics and science are described in the National Curriculum, including examples, and notes for key stages 1-3.

In describing progression in RE, the syllabus pictures how pupils will develop increasing understanding of wide areas of RE subject knowledge, and also how pupils can develop religious literacy, including the skills of:

- investigating religions and worldviews through varied experiences and disciplines;
- reflecting on and expressing their own ideas and the ideas of others with increasing creativity and clarity;
- becoming increasingly able to be reasonable in their responses to religions and worldviews.

RE makes a significant contribution to pursuing the Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire Education Improvement Service's strategic priorities including providing high quality teaching and learning, effective leadership and effective school practice, designed to enable sustained improvement through collaborative working.

RE also makes significant contributions to pupils' ability to engage with ideas about British values, such as tolerance and respect for people who hold varied beliefs and worldviews, in line with the HMI inspection focus on SMSCD, Cultural Capital and RE (September 2018).

The syllabus is a platform on which high standards and inspiring RE can be built for all our pupils in all our schools.

Positive principles which underpin the RE Agreed Syllabus

Our SACREs agree that effective, high quality RE:

- enables pupils to hold balanced and informed conversation about religions and worldviews and as such is valued by all in the school community as an important contributor to a broad and balanced curriculum and one which promotes community cohesion
- is never coercive and does not seek to persuade pupils or students to adopt any particular belief: it's all about learning
- Takes account of the religious milieu in which pupils grow up, and the make-up of the local religious communities
- is a partnership between home, community and school
- is given sufficient curriculum time to cover the breadth and depth of the themes outlined in the agreed syllabus
- uses active and memorable learning methods
- is rigorously planned, assessed and evaluated in line with other Humanities subjects
- is taught by professionals who are trained, knowledgeable and skillful
- is based on legal requirements and provides an appropriate balance between and within Christianity, other principal religions, other religious traditions and secular worldviews
- includes visits to places of worship and invites members of faith communities to contribute to lessons for learning
- ensures pupils and students develop an understanding of concepts and mastery of skills to make sense of religion, belief and secular worldviews
- provides opportunities for pupils to develop positive attitudes and values and to reflect and relate their learning in RE to their own experience
- provides opportunities for pupils to recognise that those who do not hold religious beliefs have their own philosophical perspectives and that there will be many shared values between groups
- maximises cross-curricular links.

The importance and value of RE

All children and young people need to acquire core knowledge and understanding of the beliefs and practices of the religions and worldviews which not only shape our shared history and culture, but which guide their development. The modern world needs young people who are confident in their own beliefs and values, so that they can respect the religious and cultural traditions of others.

The status of RE is sometimes low within school communities and therefore school staff will need to work with pupils and students to promote RE as a curriculum subject. RE undoubtedly supports pupils and students for life in the 'modern world'. In addition, it develops the following skills:

- Clear and logical thinking
- Critical evaluation
- Literacy and expression
- Negotiating
- Organising
- Planning
- Problem solving
- Research

GCSEs which develop critical thinking, problem solving, a curiosity about the world, communication and teamwork skills, alongside broad study skills, are excellent preparation for the study of A levels and BTEC L3 courses.

Although Religious Studies provides an excellent platform to study all manner of subjects, they relate to certain themes very well within subject groupings:

- Sciences, maths and computing – ethics within environment, medicine, technology and engineering
- Humanities, languages, business – social, moral and political awareness
- Creative, performing and media arts – enriching ideas and projects on social, global, local and community projects
- Sports – community activity and communication skills for coaching.

For those studying RE at higher levels, the subject is valued by leading universities in relation to an exceptionally wide range of courses at degree level.

RE legal requirements: what does the legislation in England say?

RE is for all pupils

- Every pupil has a legal entitlement to RE.
- RE is a necessary part of a 'broad and balanced curriculum' and must be provided for all registered pupils in state-funded schools in England, including those in the sixth form, unless withdrawn by their parents (or withdrawing themselves if they are aged 18 or over).
- This requirement does not apply for children below compulsory school age (although there are many examples of good practice of RE in nursery classes).
- Special schools should ensure that every pupil receives RE 'as far as is practicable'.
- The 'basic' school curriculum includes the National Curriculum, RE, and relationships and sex education.

RE is locally determined, not nationally

- A locally agreed syllabus is a statutory syllabus for RE recommended by an agreed syllabus conference for adoption by a local authority.
- Local authority maintained schools without a religious character must follow the locally agreed syllabus.
- RE is also compulsory for all pupils in academies and free schools, as set out in their funding agreements. Academies may use the locally agreed syllabus, or a different locally agreed syllabus (with the permission of the SACRE concerned) or devise their own curriculum. This agreed syllabus has been written to support academies in our local area to meet the requirements of their funding agreement and is warmly commended to them.

RE is multifaith, and recognises the place of Christianity and the other principal religions in the UK. Non-religious worldviews are included

- The RE curriculum drawn up by a SACRE or used by an academy or free school, 'shall reflect the fact that the religious traditions in Great Britain are in the main Christian, while taking account of the teaching and practices of the other principal religions represented in Great Britain'. Contemporary guidance from the government makes clear that the breadth of RE will include the six principal religions in the UK and non-religious worldviews.

Requirements for different types of schools vary

- Voluntary-aided schools with a religious character should provide RE in accordance with the trust deed or religious designation of the school, unless parents request the locally agreed syllabus.
- Church of England schools (including church academies and church free schools) should provide a wide range of opportunities for learners to understand and to make links between the beliefs, practices and value systems of the range of faiths and worldviews studied. This can be achieved by using the agreed syllabus.
- In Church of England schools, the students and their families can expect an RE curriculum that is rich and varied, enabling learners to acquire a thorough knowledge, and understanding of the Christian faith, for example through the Understanding Christianity resource. Church of England schools should use some form of enquiry approach that engages with, for example, biblical texts, and helps develop religious and theological literacy. Links with the Christian values of the school and spiritual, moral, social and cultural development are intrinsic to the RE curriculum and should have a significant impact on learners (more is set out in Religious Education in Church of England Schools: A Statement of Entitlement).
- The effectiveness of denominational education in schools with a religious character such as Roman Catholic, Church of England and Methodist schools, is evaluated during the Statutory Section 48 Inspection.

As education policy changes, the legal requirement for RE for all registered pupils remains unchanged. RE is an entitlement for all pupils on the roll of every school, unless they have been withdrawn by their parents from RE.

Parental right of withdrawal from RE

This right of withdrawal was first granted in 1944 when curricular RE was called ‘religious instruction’ and carried with it connotations of induction into the Christian faith. RE is very different now – open, broad, exploring a range of religious and non-religious worldviews, never coercive. However, in the UK, parents still have the right to withdraw their children from RE on the grounds that they wish to provide their own RE (School Standards and Framework Act 1998 S71 (3)). This will be the parents’ responsibility. However, it is good practice to talk to parents to ensure that they understand the aims and value of RE before honouring this right. Schools often include a short statement about RE being inclusive in their prospectus, and ask parents considering withdrawal to contact the head teacher to arrange a discussion. Some schools also say that they will not support selective withdrawal from some parts of RE. Students aged 18 or over have the right to withdraw themselves from RE.

Detailed guidance and case studies from the National Association of Head Teachers and the National Association of Teachers of RE is available: <https://www.natre.org.uk/membership/guidance-on-withdrawal/>

What is statutory material and what is guidance material in this RE syllabus?

The statutory requirements of this syllabus are as follows:

- Schools must obey the law by providing RE for every pupil in each year group, except those withdrawn by their parents (see above).
- The purposes of RE, the principal aim and its three-fold elaboration are the aims of RE in this syllabus. They are statutory. Schools must enable pupils to achieve in RE in relation to the aims.
- The minimum requirements for which religions are to be taught are statutory. Schools must teach about these religions and worldviews, so that pupils have a broad and balanced curriculum in RE from ages 5–14.
- The end-of-phase and age-related outcomes specified in the syllabus are statutory. Schools must use these to plan teaching and learning so that all pupils have a chance to meet these standards, which are similar to the age-related outcomes for foundation subjects of the National Curriculum such as geography or history.

Guidance and support in meeting these requirements

- The investigation plans provided for pupils in each age group are the main means by which schools are advised to implement the statutory programme of RE, but they are flexible. Schools can develop additional units of work of their own, from the principle aim of RE, as long as they meet the outcomes and reflect the range of religions that the syllabus requires.
- The skills and knowledge which the syllabus offers to pupils, as described in the assessment guidance of the syllabus, offer good methods for assessing achievement which are compatible with the assessment of other subjects, and a range of school-based assessment policies and programmes. Teachers can use this guidance, or something which is superior to it, in their own schools.

Religion in Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire, the Region and the Nation Census figures from 2011

It is very valuable for pupils to learn about religion as it is in the UK today. Census figures are one source for this kind of enquiry. The tables below provide some basic information, but much more – and much more detail – is available from the website: www.statistics.gov.uk. Secondary pupils can use this website for themselves, with some guidance. Of course, these figures will be superseded by the 2021 Census.

Religion in Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire, the region and the UK (rounded to hundreds or thousands)

Religion / Belief	Nottingham~ Shire	Nottingham City	The East Midlands	England and Wales
Christianity	481 994	135 216	2 666 172	33 243 000 59%
Islam	6963	26 919	140 649	2 706 000 4.8%
Hinduism	3480	4498	89 723	816 000 1.4%
Sikhism	3132	4312	44 335	423 000 >1%
Judaism	717	1069	4254	263 000 >1%
Buddhism	1860	2051	12 672	247 000 >1%
Other religious groups	2689	1483	17 918	240 000 >1%
No religion	230 138	106 954	1 248 056	14 097 000 25%
Unstated in the Census	54 829	23 178	309 443	4 038 000

All pupils should build an accurate understanding of these figures, so that they can see clearly the place of different religions and worldviews in contemporary Britain.

Note that while some populations may be numbered in hundreds or the low thousands in our immediate area, we are educating pupils to live in a region, a nation and a world – not merely in a village, or a single city. Since 2001, the biggest change has been a 10% increase in the number of non-religious people in the UK and a 12% fall in the number identifying themselves as Christians. But Christianity is still selected by 59% of the population as their chosen description of religious identity. A new census in 2021 will provide fresh and up to date information.

Note: the term ‘no religion’ is used in the census itself.

The Intentions of Religious Education: Purposes of Study

RE provokes challenging questions about meaning and purpose in life, beliefs about God, ultimate reality, issues of right and wrong and what it means to be human. Teaching should equip pupils with knowledge and understanding of a range of religions and worldviews, enabling them to develop their ideas, values and identity. It should develop an aptitude for dialogue in pupils so that they can participate positively in our society which is diverse in relation to religions and worldviews. Pupils should learn how to study religions and worldviews systematically, making progress by reflecting on the impact of religions and worldviews on contemporary life locally, nationally and globally to increasing levels of complexity and depth. Pupils should gain and deploy the skills needed to interpret and evaluate evidence, texts and sources of wisdom or authority. They learn to articulate clear and coherent accounts of their personal beliefs, ideas, values and experiences while respecting the right of others to have different views, values and ways of life.

The Aim of RE in Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire

The curriculum for religious education aims to ensure that all pupils:

A. Know about and understand a range of religions and worldviews, so that they can:

- Describe, explain and analyse beliefs and practices, recognising the diversity which exists within and between communities;
- Identify, investigate and respond to questions posed by, and responses offered by some of the sources of wisdom<sup>1</sup> found in religions and worldviews;
- Appreciate and appraise the nature, significance and impact of different ways of life and ways of expressing meaning.

B. Express ideas and insights about the nature, significance and impact of religions and worldviews, so that they can:

- Explain reasonably their ideas about how beliefs, practices and forms of expression influence individuals and communities;
- Express with increasing discernment their personal reflections and critical responses to questions and teachings about identity, diversity, meaning and value;
- Appreciate and appraise varied dimensions of religion<sup>2</sup>.

C. Gain and deploy the skills needed to engage seriously with religions and worldviews, so that they can:

- Find out about and investigate key concepts and questions of belonging, meaning, purpose and truth, responding creatively;
- Enquire into what enables different communities to live together respectfully for the wellbeing of all;
- Articulate beliefs, values and commitments clearly in order to explain reasons why they may be important in their own and other people's lives.

<sup>1</sup> The sources of wisdom found in religions and worldviews will include the teachings of some key leaders, key texts and key thinkers from different traditions and communities. Examples are many, but could include the Buddha, Jesus Christ, the Prophet Muhammad, Guru Nanak, Charles Darwin, the Bible, the Torah or the Bhagavad Gita. Other sources of wisdom might come from the contemporary world.

<sup>2</sup> The RE Programme of Study usually refers to 'religions and worldviews' to describe the field of enquiry. Here, however, the aim is to consider religion itself, as a phenomenon which has both positive and negative features, and is open to many interpretations: in this aspect of the aims, pupils are to engage with religion, not merely with individual examples of religions or worldviews.

The three elements of the aim of RE: three areas of learning

Intentions: the aims of RE, subject content and the contributions of RE to whole school priorities

RE offers distinctive opportunities to promote pupils' spiritual, cultural, social and moral development. RE lessons should offer a structured and safe space during curriculum time for reflection. Teaching in RE should engage pupils in discussion, dialogue and debate which enables them to make their reasoning clear and which supports their cognitive and linguistic development.

RE makes a key contribution to enabling pupils to consider British values, including tolerance and respect for people who hold different faiths and worldviews. The HMI Inspection Framework for schools requires schools to be active in promoting these values, and well planned RE is a major part of this work. This is elaborated below.

Teaching in RE lessons should also allow for timely and sensitive responses to be made to unforeseen events of a religious, moral or philosophical nature, whether local, national or global.

The breadth of RE

The law requires that Agreed Syllabuses and RE syllabuses used in academies that are not designated with a religious character “must reflect the fact that the religious traditions in Great Britain are in the main Christian, while taking account of the teaching and practices of the other principal religions represented in Great Britain”. This means that from ages 4-19 pupils learn about diverse religions and worldviews including Christianity and the other principal religions. All types of school should recognise the diversity of our region and of the UK and the importance of learning about its religions and worldviews, including those with a significant local presence.

RE in the school curriculum in different school types

RE is a statutory subject in each year of the school curriculum of maintained schools. Academies and Free Schools are contractually required through the terms of their funding agreements with DfE to make provision for the teaching of RE to all pupils on the school roll, and Academies in Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire are warmly invited to use this syllabus, a local, contemporary and widely approved framework for RE. The Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire RE Agreed Syllabus for 2021-26 has been developed in line with the strategic priorities of the Local Authority and in consultation with all stakeholders.

Organising RE: Which religions and beliefs are to be studied?

The Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire Agreed Syllabus requires that all pupils learn from Christianity in each key stage. In addition, pupils will learn from the principal religions represented in the UK, in line with the law. These are Islam, Hinduism, Sikhism, Buddhism and Judaism. Furthermore, children from families where non-religious worldviews are held are represented in almost all of our classrooms. These worldviews, including for example Humanism, will also be the focus for study. Religions to be studied in depth are as follows:

Schools should consider the pupils they serve in deciding whether to go beyond the minimum entitlements that pupils should learn about and learn from:		Non religious worldviews in RE: Many pupils come from families and communities that practice no religion. Many people reject supernatural explanations of human life. It is recommended that pupils study non-religious beliefs and ways of life both before the age of 14 and during 14-19 RE. These may include examples such as Humanism and the ideas of people who describe themselves as 'spiritual but not religious'.
4-5s Reception	Developing a growing sense of the child's awareness of self, their own community and their place within this, children will encounter Christianity and other faiths found in their own classroom, simply.
5-7s Key Stage 1	A minimum of two religions are to be studied. Christianity and at least one other religion (Judaism is the recommended example). Religions and beliefs represented in the local area.
7-11s Key Stage 2	A minimum of three religions are to be studied. Christianity and at least two other religions (Hinduism and Islam are recommended).
11-14s Key Stage 3	Four religions are to be studied. Christianity, Buddhism, Sikhism and Islam are recommended (an additional study of Judaism or Hinduism may also be undertaken).
14-16s Key Stage 4	It is recommended that at least two religions, usually including Christianity, are studied. This will usually be through a recognised national RS qualification course such as GCSE full or short RS courses or CoEA RS, but could be through a school devised RE course.
16-19s RE for All	Religions and worldviews to be selected by schools and colleges as appropriate

This is the minimum requirement. Many schools may wish to go beyond the minimum. Schools should consider the pupils they serve in deciding whether to go beyond the minimum entitlements to learning about religions and beliefs. Learning from 4 religions across a key stage is demanding: the syllabus does not recommend tackling 6 religions in a key stage. Depth is more important than overstretched breadth.

Note A: The range of religious groups in the UK. Groups such as Jehovah's Witnesses, Latter Day Saints, the Baha'i faith or the Jains are not excluded from study in this scheme for RE. Schools are always advised to make space for the worldviews of the local community, which is why the table above expresses minimum requirements.

Note B: Progression in learning through the primary school. It is good practice for pupils to progress their skills by learning from a religion over a period of years, for example across a key stage.

Note C: Sikhi for 7-11s. Members of the Sikh community have provided an appendix plan for those who wish to include Sikh religion in Key Stage 2.

Note D: Secondary RE provision: If schools use a 2 year key stage three, then all pupils 14-16 should still receive their entitlements to RE provision.

Note E: Plural RE for 14-19s. The 14-19 section of the syllabus gives more detail on different ways for schools to develop their RE / RS courses. Schools studying GCSE examination courses must consider carefully how to avoid narrow learning in RS and address the question of the breadth of learning about religions and worldviews carefully.

Organising RE: Curriculum time for RE in Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire

In order to deliver the aims and expected standards of the syllabus, SACRE and the Agreed Syllabus Conference expects a minimum allocation of curriculum time for RE based upon the law and DfE guidance. A minimum 5% of curriculum time is required for teaching RE. Schools should make plans to give at least this amount of curriculum time to the subject as the syllabus is implemented. OFSTED require the curriculum in RE to be of similar ambition to the National Curriculum subjects.

This means in practice that schools are expected to allocate:

- Reception and Key Stage 1: 36 hours of tuition per year (e.g. 50 minutes a week or some short sessions implemented through continuous provision)
- Key Stage 2: 45 hours of tuition per year (e.g. an hour a week, or less than an hour a week plus a series of RE days)
- Key Stage 3: 45 hours of tuition per year (e.g. an hour a week, RE-centred Humanities lessons taught for 4 hours a week for one term of the year)
- 14-16s: 5% of curriculum time, or 70 hours of tuition across the key stage (e.g. an hour a week for five terms)
- 16-19s: Allocation of time for RE for all should be clearly identifiable and should not be tokenistic.

This means that this syllabus for RE can be delivered in an average of approximately an hour of teaching per week.

Notes

- RE is legally required for all pupils. RE is a core subject of the curriculum for all pupils. The requirements of this Agreed Syllabus are not subject to the flexibility of the Foundation Subjects.
- RE is different from assembly. Curriculum time for Religious Education is distinct from the time schools may spend on collective worship or school assembly. The times given above are for RE in the curriculum, when pupils are being taught the subject.
- Flexible delivery of RE is often good practice: an RE themed day, or week of study can complement – but not replace - the regular programme of timetabled lessons (see additional ideas on the next page).
- RE should be taught in clearly identifiable time. There is a common frontier between RE and such subjects as literacy, citizenship, history, RSE or PSHE. But the times given above are explicitly for the clearly identifiable teaching of RE. Where creative cross curricular planning is used, schools must ensure that RE objectives from the syllabus are clearly planned and taught.
- Coherence and progression. Whilst schools are expected to make their own decisions about how to divide up curriculum time, schools must ensure that sufficient time is given to RE so that pupils can meet the standards and expectations set out in this Agreed Syllabus to provide coherence and progression in RE learning: as OFSTED require, this is an ambitious curriculum.
- Too little time leads to low standards: Any school in which head teachers and governors do not plan to allocate sufficient curriculum time for RE is unlikely to be able to enable pupils to achieve the outcomes set out in this syllabus.

Organising RE: Flexible models of delivery and high standards in RE

An ambitious curriculum: Religious Education must be planned for high standards. There are different ways that schools can do this. All Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire pupils, 4-19, are entitled to good learning in RE, so schools must plan sufficient time for the subject to be well taught. Subject leaders for RE, senior staff, head teachers and governors will all take an interest in ensuring provision enables the best possible standards. This might be done in various ways:

Whilst there may be occasions where there are planned activities for children in the Early Years, these should always start with the experiences and events which relate to the children and their immediate families and communities. Other opportunities to develop children spiritually and morally and to strengthen their understanding of cultures and beliefs should be planned and delivered through ongoing high quality provision through play using children's own experiences and questions as starting points.

A large majority of Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire schools use one or two weekly lessons of RE as the standard way of running the curriculum plan. The advantages of this are that pupils get used to the RE lesson, the progress they make can be steady and continuous and teachers 'know where they are'. The main disadvantage is that pupils' weekly experience of RE can sometimes be too spread out for the deeper learning that the subject requires to flourish.

- Some schools use a themed curriculum approach to RE. A series of lessons in the humanities are themed for RE, e.g. for half a term, and pupils spend four or five hours a week or more doing RE and relating the study to history or geography. In the next half term, the focus may be more on one of the other subjects. The main advantages of this are that pupils get a deeper and more continuous experience of RE. A disadvantage is that some schools use arbitrary themes or fail to plan RE into the programme at sufficient depth. Parity with, for example, History and Geography makes good sense here. Specialist RE teachers' involvement in setting a sharp focus on planned RE outcomes in planning is crucial.
- Some schools use an 'RE Week' or an 'RE Day' to focus learning, then follow up the 'big experience' with linked lessons over several weeks. Such 'big events' RE planning is demanding of teachers but can, for example, help the whole school to focus and develop the subject. A day is about 5 hours, so is not, of course, a substitute for a term's worth of weekly lessons. The key to success is clarity about the RE learning that is planned. A guide to this kind of opportunity, with some practical ideas and outlines, is available from RE Today, titled 'Big RE'. Occasional 'drop down' days without weekly lessons do not enable pupils to make progress, or to show the outcomes of the syllabus, and are not an effective way to deliver the RE curriculum.
- Creative curriculum planning in which a modular approach to curriculum planning can be used effectively. This approach can present both opportunities and challenges for RE: Why do inspectors sometimes find RE is least well covered in an integrated programme of learning? Do some themes enable RE effectively, but do some themes make it harder to include real RE? Schools must consider the learning objectives of the syllabus in deciding whether RE learning is well served by 'creative curriculum planning'.
- Mixed Age Classes: In schools where class groups include children from different year groups, this RE syllabus can be taught in very flexible ways using the guidance and materials the syllabus provides for the different ages in the class.

In deciding the ways in which the Agreed Syllabus will be implemented, schools should ensure that the full range of RE opportunities is offered to all pupils and the curriculum is similar in ambition to the National Curriculum.

Respect for All, Global Learning, British Values and Community Cohesion: What does RE offer to pupils?

This Agreed Syllabus provides many opportunities for RE teaching and learning to challenge stereotypical views and to appreciate difference positively.

Learning for diversity. Government guidance advises that “every school is responsible for educating children and young people who will live and work in a country which is diverse in terms of cultures, religions or beliefs”. A recurring theme of government and HMI guidance on Religious Education is to “develop a positive attitude towards other people, respecting their right to hold different beliefs from their own, and towards living in a world of diverse religions.” RE guidance also requires schools to enable pupils to examine the consequences of anti-social behaviour such as racism and to develop strategies for dealing with it. Equally, Ofsted (2014) also points to the major contribution that RE makes in promoting British values and enabling learners to develop positive attitudes through “valuing diversity, promoting multicultural understanding and respect.”

Reducing intolerance, increasing respect. Promoting understanding, respect and community cohesion aims to contribute to reducing the corrosive effects of intolerance. It is too simplistic to assume that merely by teaching about the major world religions, RE will automatically contribute to community cohesion. It is even possible for weaker teaching to reinforce stereotypes: e.g. ‘Muslims are from Pakistan’ or ‘Christians are white’. It is valuable to note that, for example, Christians, Jews and Muslims all give great significance to Jesus within their religious tradition, holding some aspects in common and diverging on other fundamental points. There is also, of course, great diversity within religions, where different interpretations can clash sharply. As well as learning about the historical and current relationship between cultures and worldviews, pupils should study the ways in which one religion has influenced the development of another. Challenging negative attitudes is a part of this process of learning.

Visits and visitors: RE is the ideal vehicle for building links with faith communities in the local area of the school. Pupils need opportunities to meet people of different faiths and cultures to develop a respect for those who believe, think and practice differently, without feeling that their own identity or views are threatened. In fact, pupils can deepen and clarify their sense of identity through their encounter with the ‘other’. It is important to set ground rules for discussion when religious differences are explored, in order to create a safe and positive environment. This is particularly relevant where there may be media misrepresentations and commonly held negative stereotypes e.g. Islamophobic ideas, unfair negativity to any religion. RE has a place in reducing extremism. Schools should plan a diverse programme of RE visits and encourage all parents to support their children’s involvement and learning. This is expected by national and local government.

Breadth – cohesion for all. In terms of community cohesion in Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire, it is more meaningful to pupils if the religions taught include those of their own families and communities, including smaller faith groups in order to accord equal value and respect. Similarly, children should learn that non-religious perspectives on life, including examples such as Humanism, are also valid and widespread. Large numbers of our pupils come from families where no religion is practiced, and they must not be made to feel that their lives or families are less worthy as a result.

Planned support for teaching. At Key Stages 2 and 3 there are planned units for investigating these important issues. For Key Stage 2, see the unit on ‘Enquiring into places of worship through visits’ and for Years 7-9 “How can the towns in Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire become more respectful places?”

Fundamental British values and RE

School inspection by OFSTED explores and judges the contribution schools make to actively promoting British values. This syllabus is ambitious in describing the contributions of RE to enable pupils to go beyond tolerance of each other towards respect, harmony and mutual esteem.

RE makes a key educational contribution to pupils' explorations of British values

Teaching the Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire Agreed Syllabus for Religious Education will enable pupils to learn to think for themselves about British values.

Questions about whether social and moral values are best described as 'British values' or seen as more universal human values will continue to be debated, but for the purposes of teachers of RE, the subject offers opportunities to build an accurate knowledge base about religions and beliefs in relation to values. This in turn supports children and young people so that they are able to move beyond attitudes of tolerance towards increasing respect, so that they can celebrate diversity.

Values education and moral development are a part of a school's holistic mission to contribute to the wellbeing of all people within our communities. The RE curriculum focuses learning in some of these areas, but pupils' moral development is a whole school issue.

- Mutual tolerance. Schools do not accept intolerant attitudes to members of the community: attitudes which reject other people on the basis of race, faith, gender, sexual orientation or age are rightly challenged. The baseline for a fair community is that each person's right to 'be themselves' is to be accepted by all. Tolerance may not be enough: RE can challenge children and young people to be increasingly respectful and to celebrate diversity, but tolerance is a starting point: it is much better than intolerance.
- Respectful attitudes. In the RE curriculum attention focusses on developing mutual respect between those of different faiths and beliefs, promoting an understanding of what a society gains from diversity. Pupils will learn about diversity in religions and worldviews and will be challenged to respect other persons who see the world differently to themselves. Recognition and celebration of human diversity in many forms can flourish where pupils understand different faiths and beliefs and are challenged to be broad minded and open hearted.
- Democracy. In RE pupils learn the significance of each person's ideas and experiences through methods of discussion. In debating the fundamental questions of life, pupils learn to respect a range of perspectives. This contributes to learning about democracy, examining the idea that we all share a responsibility to use our voice and influence for the wellbeing of others.
- The Rule of Law: In RE pupils examine different examples of codes for human life, including commandments, rules or precepts offered by different religious communities. They learn to appreciate how individuals choose between good and evil, right and wrong, and they learn to apply these ideas to their own communities. They learn that fairness requires that the law apply equally to all, irrespective of a person's status or wealth.
- Individual liberty. In RE, pupils consider questions about identity, belonging and diversity, learning what it means to live a life free from constraints. They study examples of pioneers of human freedom, including those from within different religions, so that they can examine tensions between the value of a stable society and the value of change for human development.

Cultural Capital and RE

What is cultural capital? A concept from the OFSTED Framework relevant to RE.

How does RE contribute to building cultural capital for learners?

Cultural capital is a sociological concept which describes a person's social assets, usable in seeking and securing status within the social groups to which the individual belongs, from the local and familial to the national or global.

Cultural and social assets include, for example, education, family status, style of speech – whatever gives access to a society's benefits. Religions make key contributions to cultural capital in many areas. This might relate to culture in its widest sense, including film, food, sport, fashion, the arts, language, history, science – and indeed faiths, beliefs and religions, in relation to the multicultural society. The distribution and accumulation of cultural capital - as with financial capital – seems to be unequal, and this can lead to some groups being disadvantaged.

Cultural capital comprises both the material and symbolic goods which a person can access and use within the economy. Think of it as the accumulated cultural knowledge that confers social status and power, including all the cultural offers religions make for their followers.

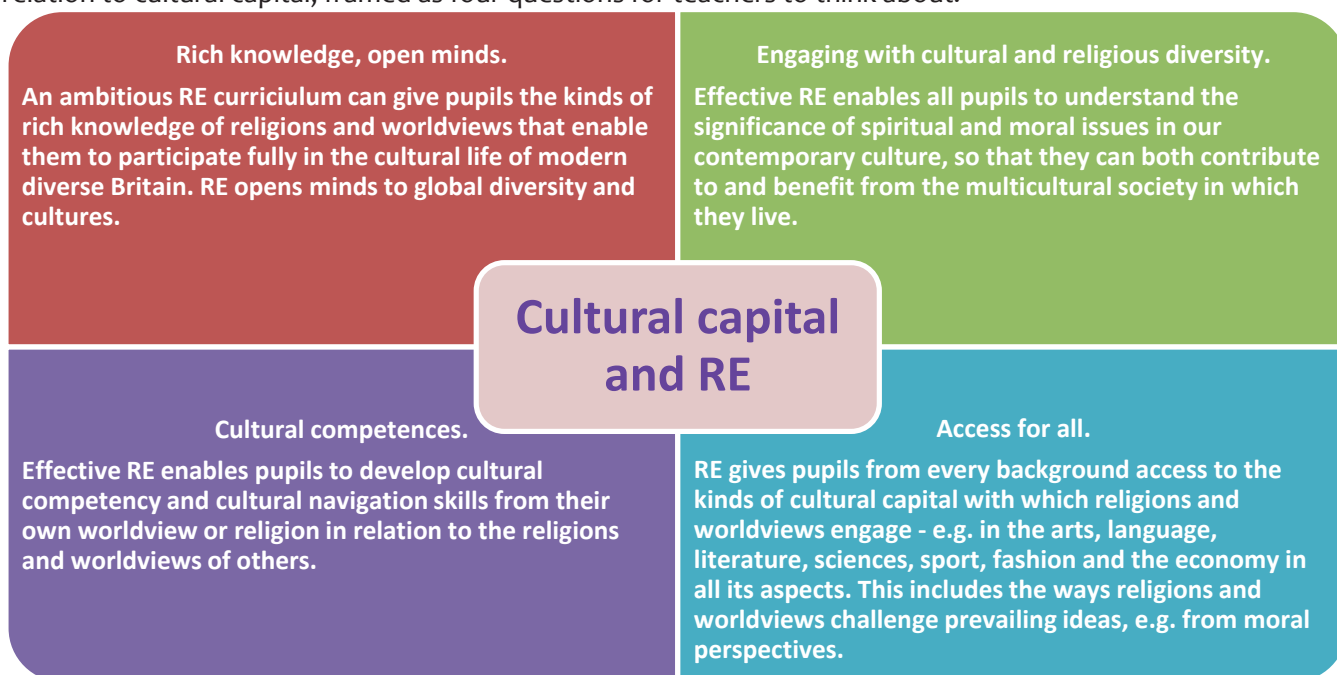

In OFSTED Education Inspection Framework, the concept is applied to all inspections, and used in this key requirement:

Intent: leaders take on or construct a curriculum that is ambitious and designed to give all learners, particularly the most disadvantaged and those with special educational needs and/or disabilities (SEND) or high needs, the knowledge and cultural capital they need to succeed in life. (p9)

How does this connect to RE?

In relation to Religious Education, this concept has clear relevance and currency. Teachers of RE over many years have argued that a rich knowledge of the cultural and religious milieu in which children and young people are growing up has high value in the world of work and in social life more generally, and pupils surveyed about the value of RE often agree. Whilst it is obvious that the responsibilities of a school with regard to cultural capital for all its pupils are by no means the sole responsibility of RE, it is also useful to describe how RE can make the contribution. The diagram offers a simple description of RE's potential in relation to cultural capital, framed as four questions for teachers to think about.

Examples of RE's contribution to cultural capital include these, among many others:

Experiences in RE which enhance cultural capital: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▪ Being able to explore the culture and values of different religions and worldviews.</li> <li>▪ Receiving visitors from different faith communities.</li> <li>▪ Visiting places of worship from different faith communities.</li> <li>▪ Engaging with music, dance, drama and the arts inspired by religions and worldviews.</li> <li>▪ Recognising expressions of religion in culture: food, symbols, dress.</li> </ul>	Opportunities to demonstrate cultural capital: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▪ Collaborative teamwork activities that enable learners to express their own culture and beliefs in creative ways.</li> <li>▪ Engaging in activities which enable learners to see, experience and use for themselves 'the best that has been thought and said' in religions and worldviews.</li> <li>▪ Chances to participate in making cultural experiences that have lasting positive impact on the learners, e.g. in performance of music, dance, drama or worship.</li> </ul>
A religiously educated young person: skills and competencies include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The skills needed to navigate a society in which different cultures and religions are present.</li> <li>• The skills of listening and dialogue which enable mutual understanding and respect.</li> <li>• The skills needed to contribute to enabling inclusive communities, e.g. in class or school, to flourish for the wellbeing of all.</li> <li>• Simple examples include meeting and greeting others, engaging in conversation, sharing food with respect to differences of culture and recognizing examples of religious expression.</li> </ul>	Skills and competencies in cultural capital which RE offers <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▪ The ability to speak confidently about their engagement with and appraisal of religious and spiritual aspects of culture.</li> <li>▪ The ability to engage with and respond for themselves to dilemmas of belief and value in their society.</li> <li>▪ The ability to relate without embarrassment or fear to people who are different, being polite, showing interest and always avoiding negativity such as ridicule.</li> <li>▪ The ability to make and enjoy cultural 'products' such as art, music, dance, drama in the context of RE.</li> </ul>

Religious Education and Statutory Relationships and Sex Education

There are clear links between Religious Education and themes in the 2020 statutory Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) framework that we recommend schools explore when planning their curricula. Discussion around diverse families, commitment, marriage, parenting, and values, for example, will benefit from a cross-curricular approach that enables pupils to explore different perspectives from a range of religions and worldviews as well as relevant legislation. In consultation with your parent body you may like to include references within your RSE and RE policies and planning documents to these cross-curricular learning opportunities. More information about Relationships, Sex and Health Education (RSHE), locally and nationally can be found on the links below:

Implementing our intentions for RE

Subject content for RE in different age groups

RE in the Early Years Foundation Stage

Pupils should encounter religions and worldviews through special people, books, times, places and objects and by visiting places of worship. They should listen to and talk about stories. Pupils can be introduced to subject specific words and use all their senses to explore beliefs, practices and forms of expression. They ask questions and reflect on their own feelings and experiences. They use their imagination and curiosity to develop their appreciation of and wonder at the world in which they live. Religious Education is, unlike the subjects of the National Curriculum, a legal requirement for all pupils on the school roll, including all those in the reception year.

In line with the DfE's 2013 EYFS Profile RE should, through planned, purposeful play and through a mix of adult-led and child-initiated activity, provide these opportunities for pupils.

Communication and Language

- children listen with enjoyment to stories, songs and poems from different communities and traditions and respond with relevant comments, questions or actions;
- use talk to organise, sequence and clarify thinking, ideas, feelings and events;
- answer 'who', 'how' and 'why' questions about their experiences in response to stories, experiences or events from different traditions and communities;
- talk about how they and others show feelings;
- develop their own narratives in relation to stories they hear from different communities.

Personal, Social and Emotional Development

- children understand that they can expect others to treat their needs, views, cultures and beliefs with respect;
- work as part of a group, taking turns and sharing fairly, understanding that groups of people need agreed values and codes of behaviour, including adults and children, to work together harmoniously;
- talk about their own and others' behaviour and its consequences, and know that some behaviour is unacceptable;
- think and talk about issues of right and wrong and why these questions matter;
- respond to significant experiences showing a range of feelings when appropriate;
- have a developing awareness of their own needs, views and feelings and be sensitive to those of others;
- have a developing respect for their own cultures and beliefs, and those of other people;
- show sensitivity to others' needs and feelings and form positive relationships.

Understanding the World

- children talk about similarities and differences between themselves and others, among families, communities and traditions;
- begin to know about their own cultures and beliefs and those of other people;
- explore, observe and find out about places and objects that matter in different cultures and beliefs.

Expressive Arts and Design

- children use their imagination in art, music, dance, imaginative play, rôle-play and stories to represent their own ideas, thoughts and feelings;
- respond in a variety of ways to what they see, hear, smell, touch and taste.

Literacy

- children access a wide range of books, poems and other written materials to ignite their interest.

Mathematics

- children recognise, create and describe some patterns, sorting and ordering objects simply.

These learning intentions for RE are developed from relevant areas of the Early Years Foundation Stage Profile (DfE, 2013). Teachers and schools will find more detailed examples useful, but these map the territory. The syllabus support website gives examples of planning in this important area.

What should practitioners in the Reception Year offer for RE?

Here are six recommended titles for RE work in the Reception year, where provision should be integrated into the whole experience of the child, including for example songs, play, imaginative work, language development, story and creativity.

F1 Which stories are special and why?
F2 Which people are special and why?
F3 What places are special and why?
F4 What times are special and why?
F5 Belonging: who are we and how do we belong?
F6 Our wonderful world: how can we care for living things and the earth?

These integrated planning approaches are supported with an appendix within the supporting material which is available on the sites shown on page 2

Key Stage 1 RE

The Focus of RE for KS1 enables children to develop their knowledge and understanding of religions and worldviews. They find out about simple examples of religion that are drawn from local, national and global contexts. They should use basic subject specific vocabulary. They should raise questions and begin to express their own views in response to the material they learn about and in response to questions about their ideas. The RE curriculum is engaging and interactive, using story, music, drama, activity, teamwork, thinking structures and language work to enable deepening engagement from every child.

The aim of RE is expressed in age appropriate outcomes for most 7 year olds.

Specifically pupils should be taught to:

Know about and understand religions and worldviews	Express ideas and insights into religions and worldviews	Gain and deploy the skills for learning from religions and worldviews
A1. Recall and name different beliefs and practices, including festivals, worship, rituals and ways of life, in order to find out about the meanings behind them.	B1. Ask and respond to questions about what communities do, and why, so that they can identify what difference belonging to a community might make.	C1. Explore questions about belonging, meaning and truth so that they can express their own ideas and opinions in response using words, music, art or poetry.
A2. Retell and suggest meanings to some religious and moral stories, exploring and discussing sacred writings and sources of wisdom and recognising the communities from which they come.	B2. Observe and recount different ways of expressing identity and belonging, responding sensitively for themselves.	C2. Find out about and respond with ideas to examples of co-operation between people who are different.
A3. Recognise some different symbols and actions which express a community's way of life, appreciating some similarities between communities.	B3. Notice and respond sensitively to some similarities between different religions and worldviews.	C3. Find out about questions of right and wrong and begin to express their ideas and opinions in response.

Using the programme of study for Key Stage 1:

- Flexible planning: The programme of study on the following pages is the recommended way of achieving the required outcomes, but schools may plan other programs of study to achieve this if they wish.
- Planning for progression: the order of teaching here is recommended to enable continuity and progression in learning, but again teachers could plan this differently to meet learning needs in their own schools.
- Rich knowledge: RE provides pupils with an increasingly rich knowledge base about religions and worldviews, enabling them to understand the society and world in which they live and preparing them for life in modern diverse Britain.
- An example: Christmas and Easter. Schools will want to teach major festivals such as Christmas and Easter at appropriate times of year. We have provided progression grids to suggest activities that can be flexibly used in the period of time directly around the festival (see the Agreed Syllabus support website and the table below).
- Which religions? Content selection for breadth and depth. Schools are required to plan for pupils to learn in depth about Christians and Jewish people in key stage 1. Some schools will choose to go beyond this minimum requirement. In doing so, it is important to retain depth while including religions relevant to the local community.
- Discovery and learning in RE: Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire RE is a discovery process, in which learners find out for themselves and use their enquiry skills to set questions, do simple research and consider a range of answers.
- Themes and concepts: The themes and concepts of RE are woven together into plans that enable pupils to investigate religions and worldviews for themselves, with the guidance of their teachers.
- Strategies for thinking skills: teachers are encouraged to make appropriate use of strategies such as the methods of community of enquiry and of Philosophy for Children (P4C) in their RE work. Many RE topics will be energised by the use of stimulating religious material such as film, text, poetry, prayer or art in the community of enquiry approach.

Please note: These Programs of Study are supposed to help the teacher and put the aims of the syllabus into a coherent and progressed programme of study but are not prescriptive. They can be adapted to suit the needs of your school and pupils, reflecting their needs and backgrounds. Some schools want to adapt learning programs about Christmas and Easter for seasonal reasons. Here is an example:

Increasing pupils' understanding of Christmas and Easter:

A spiral curriculum approach can be used so that an appropriate short sequence of lessons coincides with these key festivals during the year, enabling progression for every child.

Learning activities need to be planned with increasing challenge and no repetition to ensure the gains in understanding are clear.

- Pupils retell (for example through carols, music, drama or in pictures) religious stories of Christmas, Holy Week and Easter and suggest reasons why they are important to Christians, using the correct words to express meanings [e.g. Messiah, Crucifixion, Resurrection, Ascension] (A2);
- Pupils think about the behaviour shown by the characters in the stories e.g. being trustworthy, courageous, persistent, overcoming obstacles, forgiving, worshipping, being changed and explore some of these characteristics and values creatively (C1)
- Pupils ask and find out about from where these stories come (The Gospels of Luke and Matthew in the Bible for Christmas, all four Gospels for the narratives of Palm Sunday, Maundy Thursday, Good Friday and Easter Sunday) and how these stories are remembered and celebrated in Christian festivals today (B3)
- Pupils consider what is special about the Gospel and respond sensitively, relating to the festivals and to their own special times of life using examples, giving reasons and increasingly using the correct terms and key words (B1).

Religious content will include: Christian stories and festivals of Christmas, Holy Week and Easter and key concepts from Christian belief and practice such as incarnation, salvation and resurrection. The study of the connections between the narrative, the customs and the values of Christmas and Easter are important.

The Clock of all Religions shows that both black and white people are equal. It shows that the Religions are as common to people as numbers in everyday life. The hands show that time changes and also that religion has the opportunity to change too. It is not set in stone that we have to remain the religion that we were born into. The six main religions are shown on this clock and that the majority of people in the world believe. However there are other religions that are followed, that are as important to the individuals, as a clock is to us all.

Programme of Study for 5-7s

These investigations can be used in the order given above, which enables progression in learning, but schools are free to rearrange them if they wish, e.g. to accommodate the learning needs of mixed age classes.

Some examples of detailed planning for these units of work are available in the Supporting material listed page 2.

Key Stage 2 RE

The Focus of RE for KS2 enables pupils to extend their knowledge and understanding of religions and worldviews<sup>3</sup>, recognising their local, national and global contexts. They should be introduced to an extended range of sources and subject specific vocabulary. They should be encouraged to be curious and to ask increasingly challenging questions about religion, belief, values and human life. Pupils should learn to express their own ideas thoughtfully and creatively in response to the material they engage with, identifying relevant information, selecting examples and giving reasons to support their ideas and views.

The aim of RE is expressed in age appropriate outcomes for most pupils at age 11

Specifically, pupils should be taught to:

Know about and understand religions and worldviews	Express ideas and insights into the significance of religion and worldviews	Gain and deploy skills for engaging with religions and worldviews
A1. Describe and make connections between different features of the religions and worldviews they study, discovering more about celebrations, worship, pilgrimages and the rituals which mark important points in life in order to reflect thoughtfully on their ideas;	B1. Observe and understand varied examples of religions and worldviews so that they can explain, with reasons, their meanings and significance to individuals and communities;	C1. Discuss and present thoughtfully their own and others' views on challenging questions about belonging, meaning, purpose and truth, applying ideas of their own thoughtfully in different forms including (e.g.) reasoning, music, art and poetry;
A2. Describe and understand links between stories and other aspects of the communities they are investigating, responding thoughtfully to a range of sources of wisdom and to beliefs and teachings that arise from them in different communities;	B2. Understand the challenges of commitment to a community of faith or belief, suggesting why belonging to a community may be valuable, both in the diverse communities being studied and in their own lives;	C2. Consider and apply ideas about ways in which diverse communities can live together for the wellbeing of all, responding thoughtfully to ideas about community, values and respect;
A3. Explore and describe a range of beliefs, symbols and actions so that they can understand different ways of life and ways of expressing meaning.	B3. Observe and consider different dimensions of religion, so that they can explore and show understanding of similarities and differences between different religions and worldviews.	C3. Discuss and apply their own and others' ideas about ethical questions, including ideas about what is right and wrong and what is just and fair, and express their own ideas clearly in response.

<sup>3</sup> Breadth: in line with the law and the statement about breadth of learning on page 5 above, best practice will enable pupils to learn from Christianity and at least two other examples of a religion or worldview through Key Stage Two.

Programme of study for 7-11s

Using the programme of study for key stage 2:

- Flexible planning: The programme of study on the following pages is the recommended way of achieving the required outcomes, but schools may plan other programs of study to achieve this if they wish.
- Planning for progression: the order of teaching here is recommended to enable continuity and progression in learning, but again teachers could plan this differently to meet learning needs in their own schools.
- Example: learning from festivals. It is possible to use significant materials from a religion more than once in a 'spiral curriculum' where the challenge is planned to increase – e.g. through the years of learning from Divali, Christmas and Easter.
- Which religions? Content selection for breadth and depth: schools are required to plan for pupils to learn in depth about Christian, Muslim and Hindu people in Key Stage 2. Many schools will choose to go beyond this minimum requirement.
- Discovery and learning in RE: Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire RE is a discovery process, in which learners find out for themselves. In key stage 2 this involves raising questions and exploring a range of answers, and beginning to plan investigations for themselves
- Themes and concepts: The themes and concepts of RE are woven together into plans that enable pupils to investigate religions and worldviews for themselves, with the guidance of their teachers.
- Strategies for thinking skills: Philosophy for Children / P4C RE needs good thinking skills approaches to learning. Teachers are encouraged to make appropriate use of the methods of the community of enquiry and of philosophy for children in their RE work. Many RE topics will be energised by the use of stimulating religious material such as film, text, poetry, prayer or art in the community of enquiry approach.
- Festivals and the school year: it is good practice, where possible, to link teaching and learning opportunities to the occurrence of major festivals such as Divali, Eid Al Fitr, Pesach, Christmas or Easter to times of the year when the celebrations will be visible. RE does not have to be taught only in 10 lesson blocks, and making the most of festivities for learning is potentially good for RE.
- Mixed age classes: teachers are encouraged to make flexible planning arrangements for mixed age classes, ensuring entitlements are met without worrying about whether a class had learned 'in the right order'. There is not a single 'right order' for the teaching units.

Please note: These Programmes of Study are supposed to help the teacher but are not prescriptive. They can be adapted to suit the needs of your school and pupils, reflecting their needs and backgrounds.

A long term Key Stage Two Plan using 16 planned investigations for RE 7-11 (4 for each year group)

These investigations can be used in the order given below, which enables progression in learning, but schools are free to rearrange them if they wish, e.g. to accommodate the learning needs of mixed age classes. Some examples of detailed planning for these units of work are to be made available on the RE Agreed Syllabus Support website.

Programme of study for Key Stage 3 RE

Students should extend and deepen their knowledge and understanding of a range of religions and worldviews<sup>4</sup>, recognising their local, national and global context. Building on their prior learning, they learn to appreciate religions and worldviews in systematic ways. They should draw on a wide range of subject specific language confidently and flexibly, learning to use the concepts of religious study to describe the nature of religion (e.g. thinking about philosophy of religion, sociology of religion or psychology of religion as well as textual and historical study). They should understand how beliefs influence the values and lives of individuals and groups, and how religions and worldviews have an impact on wider current affairs. They should be able to appraise the practices and beliefs they study with increasing discernment based on interpretation, evaluation and analysis, developing their capacity to articulate well-reasoned positions.

The aim of RE is expressed in age appropriate outcomes for most 14 year olds.

Specifically students should be taught to:

Know about and understand religions and worldviews	Express ideas and insights into religions and worldviews	Gain and deploy the skills needed to study religions and worldviews seriously
A1. Explain and interpret ways that the history and culture of religions and worldviews influence individuals and communities, including a wide range of beliefs and practices in order to appraise reasons why some people support and others question these influences;	B1. Explain the religions and worldviews which they encounter clearly, reasonably and coherently; evaluate them, drawing on a range of introductory level approaches recognised in the study of religion or theology;	C1. Explore some of the ultimate questions that are raised by human life in ways that are well-informed and which invite reasoned personal responses, expressing insights that draw on a wide range of examples including the arts, media and philosophy;
A2. Explain and interpret a range of beliefs, teachings and sources of wisdom and authority in order to understand religions and worldviews as coherent systems or ways of seeing the world;	B2. Observe and interpret a wide range of ways in which commitment and identity are expressed. They develop insightful evaluation and analysis of controversies about commitment to religions and worldviews, accounting for the impact of diversity within and between communities;	C2. Examine and evaluate issues about community cohesion and respect for all in the light of different perspectives from varied religions and worldviews;
A3. Explain how and why individuals and communities express the meanings of their beliefs and values in many different forms and ways of living, enquiring into the variety, differences and relationships that exist within and between them.	B3. Consider and evaluate the question: what is religion? Analyse the nature of religion using the main disciplines by which religion is studied.	C3. Explore and express insights into significant moral and ethical questions posed by being human in ways that are well-informed and which invite personal response, using reasoning which may draw on a range of examples from real life, fiction or other forms of media.

Programme of Study for 11-14s

Suggested units of enquiry: select at least 9 from 18

Here are 18 possible titles for units of enquiry in KS3 RE. The Agreed Syllabus Conference and SACRE, mindful of the variety of provision of time and resources for KS3 RE, assert the value of studying, in a year, three or four of these enquiries (in depth) or more (at higher speed, or perhaps with more able students). Therefore students are expected to engage with 9 or more of these enquiries across Key Stage 3 (where it occupies three years of tuition). Schools are also encouraged to develop their own enquiries using the outcomes for 14 year olds to guide the standards set and maintaining the balance of study the syllabus requires.

Many of these investigations have strong links to areas of study in GCSE RS, which may be helpful in some schools working with a two year Key Stage 3.

In planning which enquiries to tackle, and in what order, schools must consider how to enable continuity and progression in students' learning, setting high standards.

The enquiries are written here with a suggestion about where they fit in Year 7, 8 or 9 built into them, so that a clear picture of progression in both knowledge and skills is given. Some are recommended for younger or lower achieving students (working from steps 3-6). Others are more demanding, for example specifying outcomes from steps 5-8, suited to learning needs in Year 9 for example. These ways of describing achievements are intended to help the teacher, rather than to be prescriptive.

Teachers are welcome to devise other enquiries for use in their own school which enable pupils to meet the outcomes for 14 year olds, which are of course the statutory heart of the syllabus.

Schools should select the units they wish to study and plan the progression through the titles they choose carefully, bearing in mind the need to balance the study of Christianity and the study of other principal religions in the UK, whilst also making appropriate space for non-religious worldviews.

In the examples presented over the next section, the syllabus specifies age-appropriate outcomes and pictures progress towards the outcomes for 14 year olds clearly and carefully. Teachers who write their own units of work or move the order of those specified below from year to year should give careful attention to pupils' progression towards the outcomes.

The syllabus prescribes a minimum of religions to be taught. Across Key Stage Three, these are Buddhism, Sikhism, Islam and Christianity. Some schools may wish to go beyond the minimum requirement.

<sup>5</sup> The RE Programme of Study usually refers to 'religions and worldviews' to describe the field of enquiry. Here, however, religion in the singular specifies the aim: to consider and engage with the nature of religion broadly, not merely with individual examples of religions or worldviews.

RE for learners aged 14-19. Key Stage 4 and 5

All students<sup>6</sup> should extend and deepen their knowledge and understanding of religions and worldviews, explaining local, national and global contexts. Building on their prior learning, they appreciate and appraise the nature of different religions and worldviews in systematic ways. They should use a wide range of concepts in the field of Religious Studies confidently and flexibly to contextualise and analyse the expressions of religions and worldviews they encounter. They should be able to research and investigate the influence and impact of religions and worldviews on the values and lives of both individuals and groups, evaluating their impact on current affairs. They should be able to appreciate and appraise the beliefs and practices of different religions and worldviews with an increasing level of discernment based on interpretation, evaluation and analysis, developing and articulating well-reasoned positions. They should be able to use different disciplines of religious study to analyse the nature of religion.

Specifically students should be taught to:

- Investigate and analyse the beliefs and practices of religions and worldviews using a range of arguments and evidence to evaluate issues and draw balanced conclusions;
- Synthesise their own and others' ideas and arguments about sources of wisdom and authority using coherent reasoning, making clear and appropriate references to their historical, cultural and social contexts;
- Develop coherent and well-informed analysis of diversity in the forms of expression and ways of life found in different religions and worldviews;
- Use, independently, different disciplines and methods by which religions and worldviews are to analyse their influence on individuals and societies;
- Account for varied interpretations of commitment to religions and worldviews and for responses to profound questions about the expression of identity, diversity, meaning and value;
- Argue for and justify their own positions with regard to key questions about the nature of religion, providing a detailed evaluation of the perspectives of others;
- Enquire into and develop insightful evaluations of ultimate questions about the purposes and commitments of human life, especially as expressed in the arts, media and philosophy;
- Use a range of research methods to examine and critically evaluate varied perspectives and approaches to issues of community cohesion, respect for all and mutual understanding, locally, nationally and globally;
- Research and skillfully present a wide range of well-informed and reasonable arguments which engage profoundly with moral, religious and spiritual issues.

GCSE Religious Studies qualifications are an excellent platform for 14-16 RE in Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire. Schools are strongly encouraged to use the national qualifications for many, most or all of their students. All students are entitled to a course of study through which their learning can be accredited.

<sup>6</sup> All state funded schools must teach RE to all students on school rolls, including all those in 14-19 education (unless withdrawn by their parents). It is important that teaching enables suitable progression from the end of Key Stage 3, in varied ways that meet the learning needs of all students. All students can reasonably expect their learning will be accredited. These modes of accreditation include nationally accredited courses in RE such as GCSE and A level RS, and a wide range of enrichment courses and opportunities. Good practice examples include many schools where all students take GCSE RS courses at 16.

What opportunities are provided for pupils with Special Needs and Disabilities in RE?

The Nottingham City and Nottinghamshire SACREs vision is of RE for all. Every pupil can achieve and benefit from their RE, including all pupils with SEND

RE is a statutory part of the core curriculum for all pupils, including those with learning difficulties. Pupils with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities (SEND) are found in all contexts and all teachers are teachers of SEND pupils. Good quality teaching in RE will tailor the planning of the syllabus carefully to the special needs of all pupils. The law says that the Agreed Syllabus is to be taught to SEND pupils 'as far as it is practicable.'

RE provision for different groups of pupils will vary but all pupils are included.

For pupils with complex learning difficulties and disabilities (CLDD)

- Good RE begins from the unique individuality where pupils are, and provides rich experiences of religion and spirituality.
- Calm and peaceful space in RE can enable learners to enjoy their RE time individually.
- RE can enable pupils with the most complex of needs to develop awareness of themselves, their feelings, their emotions and their senses.

For pupils with severe learning difficulties (SLD)

- Multi sensory approaches bring the possibility of introducing spiritual experiences.
- RE makes a contribution to pupils' social development through story, music, shared experience and ritual.
- RE can enable pupils to develop their relationships with other people and their understanding of other peoples' needs.

For pupils with moderate learning difficulties (MLD)

- RE can provide insight into the world of religion and human experience, especially when tough questions are opened up.
- RE can provide for pupils to participate in spiritual or reflective activity
- RE can enable pupils to make links with their own lives.

For pupils with emotional and behavioural difficulties (EBD)

- RE can enable pupils to address deep issues of concern in helpful ways through exploring spiritual material.
- RE lessons can explore, in the safe space schools should provide, complex emotion or thoughts.
- RE can assist in the development of pupils' maturity.

The achievements and learning of pupils with special educational needs can be measured and credited using the Performance Descriptions for RE ('P' Scales). These provide teachers with an indicator for progress within RE.

Teachers who work with children working in the range P1-P3 will find some published guidance (e.g. Routes for Learning or Quest for Learning or EQUALS units) may help them to implement the syllabus practically and record the progress a pupil has made through the earliest stages of development.

Teachers who work with children working in the range P4-P8 may also find published schemes which support the delivery of the RE Syllabus for their pupils.

For the small number of pupils who may need the provision, material may be selected from earlier or later key stages, where this is necessary, to enable individual pupils to progress and achieve. Such material should be presented in contexts suitable to the pupil's age. In making decisions about adjusting the content of the key stage, teachers should take into account the previous experience of the pupil as well as the necessity to communicate a specific differentiated approach to entitlement to subsequent teachers.

The Performance Descriptions ("P" Scales) for use in Special Schools and Designated Special Provision Units (DSPs) can be found on the DfE website. <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/p-scales-attainment-targets-for-pupils-with-sen> If this guidance is updated during the lifetime of the syllabus then SACRE expect to prepare new guidance.

Attainment in RE

Pupils should be taught an increasing knowledge and understanding of religions and worldviews. They should learn to express and communicate ideas and insights about the nature, significance and impact of religions and worldviews. They should gain and deploy the skills needed to engage seriously with religions and worldviews.

Knowledge and understanding of religions and worldviews

- Describe, explain and analyse beliefs and practices, recognising the diversity which exists within and between communities;
- Identify, investigate and respond to questions posed by, and responses offered by some of the sources of wisdom found in religions and worldviews;
- Appreciate and appraise the nature, significance and impact of different ways of life and ways of expressing meaning.

Expression and communication of ideas and insights about the nature, significance and impact of religions and worldviews

- Explain reasonably their ideas about how beliefs, practices and forms of expression influence individuals and communities;
- Express with increasing discernment their personal reflections and critical responses to questions and teachings about identity, diversity, meaning and value.
- Appreciate and appraise varied dimensions of religion

Gain and deploy the skills needed to engage seriously with religions and worldviews

- Find out about and investigate key concepts and questions of belonging, meaning, purpose and truth, responding creatively;
- Enquire into what enables different communities to live together respectfully for the wellbeing of all;
- Articulate beliefs, values and commitments clearly in order to explain reasons why they may be important in their own and other people's lives

Expectations, Progression and Achievement in Religious Education

Good assessment practice

In RE, by the end of each key stage, pupils are expected to know, apply and understand the matters, skills and processes specified in the relevant programme of study, as in all subjects of the curriculum. The expectation is that pupils' achievements will be weighed up by teachers using criteria arising from the programs of study. This statement is also included in the programs of study for each subject of the National Curriculum.

Schools have a curriculum and assessment framework that meets the set of core principles offered by the DfE. Subject leaders for RE should also plan particular ways of describing achievement and progress for all pupils.

The core principles are that assessment should:

- set out steps so that pupils reach or exceed the end of key stage expectations in the new RE curriculum;
- enable teachers to measure whether pupils are on track to meet end of key stage expectations;
- enable teachers to pinpoint the aspects of the curriculum in which pupils are falling behind, and recognise exceptional performance;
- support teachers' planning for all pupils; and
- enable the teacher to report regularly to parents and, where pupils move to other schools, providing clear information about each pupil's strengths, weaknesses and progress towards the end of key stage expectations.

Teachers' well-being

Teachers of religious education should also plan their workload carefully as the subject is often taught for a small amount of curriculum time and sometimes to many hundreds of different pupils per week. Senior school leaders will want to monitor the impact of agreed assessment practices on teachers' professional and personal workloads and wellbeing.

In the light of these DfE principles as they relate to RE, the Agreed Syllabus offers answers to 5 key questions, addressed in the coming pages.

Question 1: How can steps within an assessment framework enable pupils to reach or exceed the end of key stage expectations in the RE curriculum?

- In RE, at 7, 11 and 14, pupils should show that they know, apply and understand the matters, skills and processes specified in the programme of study

Concepts to be understood

- The programme of study enables pupils to increase and deepen their knowledge and understanding of key concepts in RE. These concepts relate to the religions and worldviews studied. The areas of enquiry or key concepts in RE can be described like this:
  - beliefs, teachings, sources of wisdom and authority;
  - experiences and ways of living;
  - ways of expressing meaning;
  - questions of identity, diversity and belonging;
  - questions of meaning, purpose and truth;
  - questions of values and commitments.

While this list of concepts bears a close relation to previous versions of RE curriculum guidance (e.g. the QCA National Non Statutory RE Framework of 2004, the previous Agreed Syllabus), the concepts are listed above to provide a checklist of areas in which pupils will make progress in RE and to guide syllabus makers in developing appropriate statements of attainment for different groups of pupils. This task will require further work and consultation in the RE community.

Gaining and deploying skills

The programmes of study also identify progression in skills across the 5-14 age range. In relation to the religions and worldviews they study, pupils are increasingly enabled to develop both their knowledge and understanding and their expression and communication through the skills which they gain and deploy.

While the programmes of study make clear the skills which are expected of learners at the end of each key stage, progress towards these outcomes will need careful planning in programmes of study.

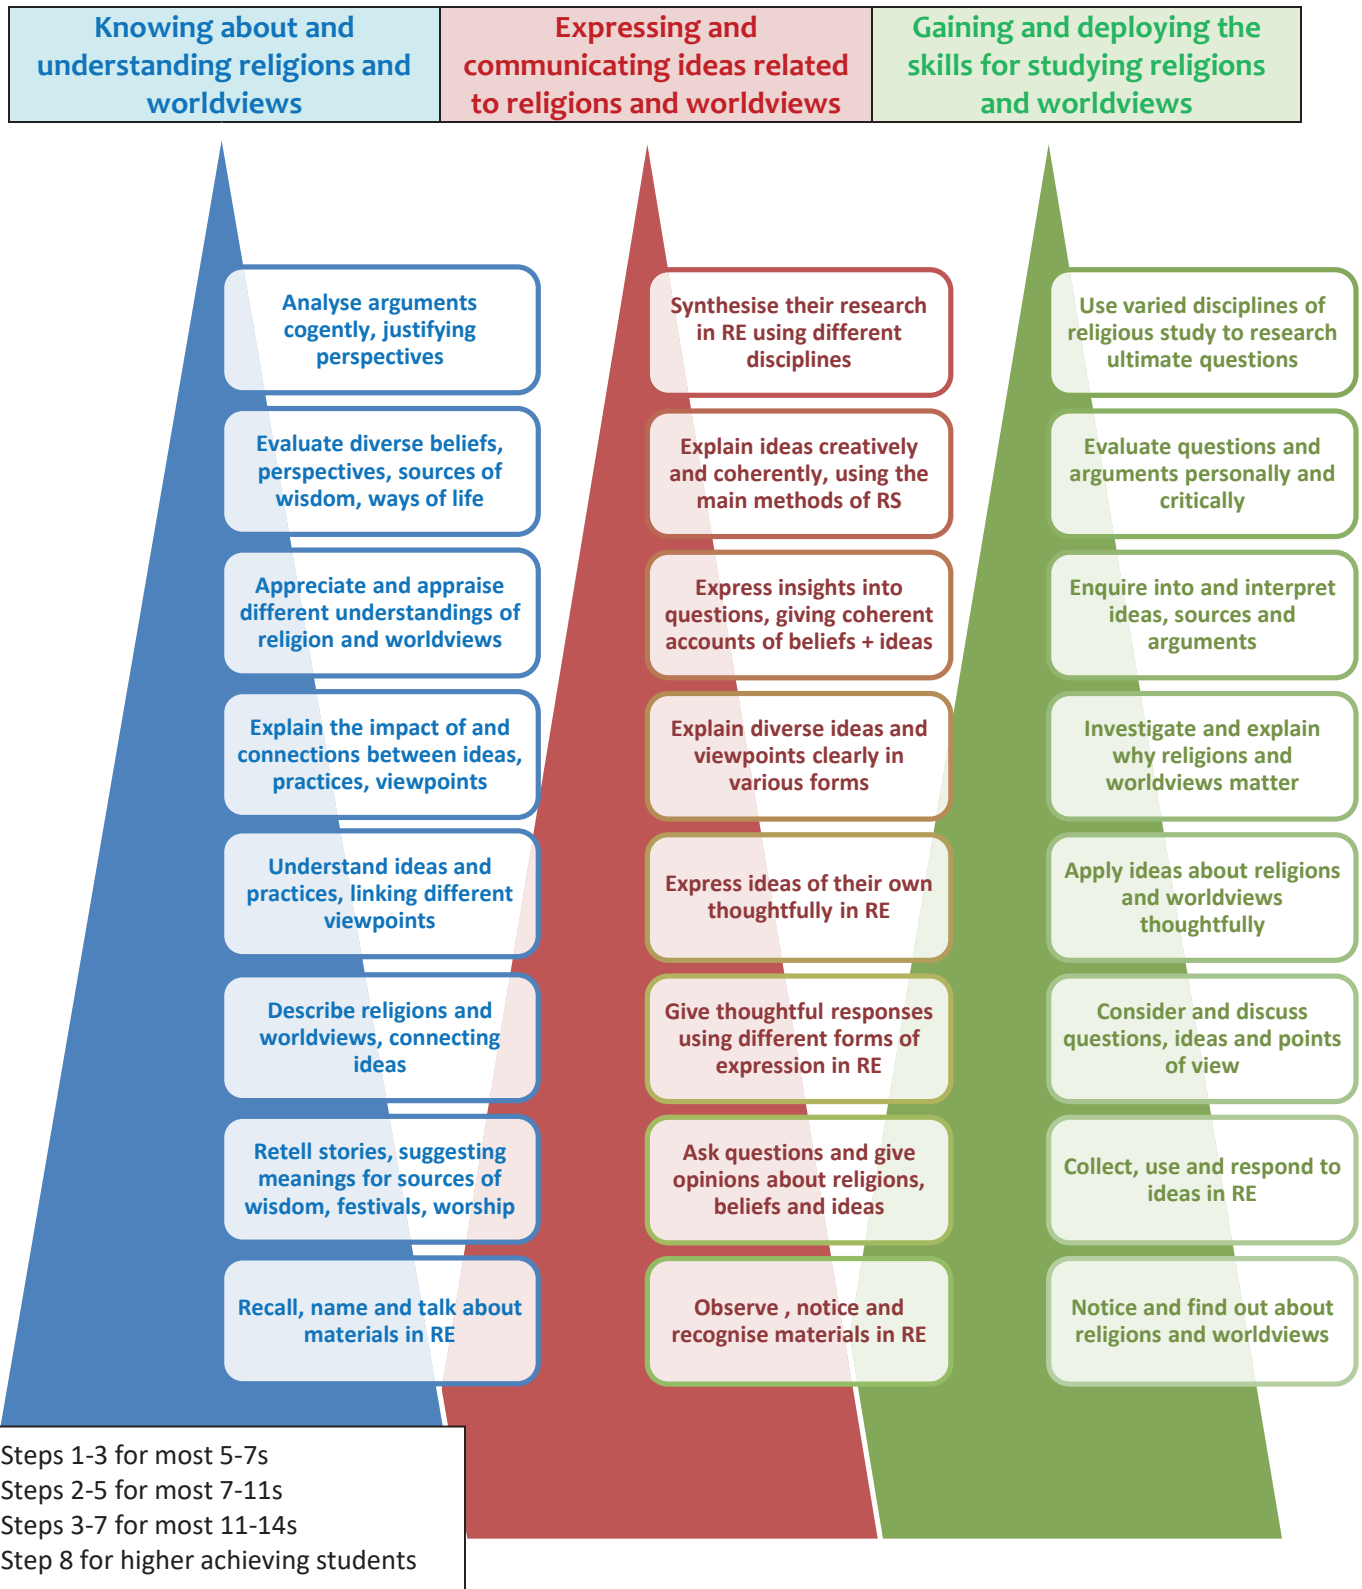

The progression in understanding and skills that the programmes of study envisage are made explicit in the three summary pyramid diagrams on the next page<sup>7</sup>. These are presented for syllabus users to consider as they approach for themselves the tasks of describing progression in RE and designing instruments that will enable fair, valid and manageable assessment for learning in RE. The pyramids relate closely to the three areas of aims for RE which this curriculum framework provides.

It is often good practice to look for pupils' work to demonstrate the outcomes first in an emerging form, second by meeting the expectations, and then third by exceeding expectations. Teachers may find it helpful to express this as 'emerging understanding, secure understanding, developed understanding' as pupils move towards the outcomes. Time is needed for pupils to consolidate and embed their learning before moving to the next steps.

A set of 'I can...' statements which relate to each of the steps towards the outcome is provided for schools to use and adapt on the Agreed Syllabus website support

<sup>7</sup> An elaborated version of these summary skills pyramids, including more detail and examples, will be made available.

Progression steps in RE for 5-14s

Question 2: How can teachers and schools measure whether pupils are on track to meet end of key stage expectations?

- Some schools will want to develop current practice arising from our 2009 8 level scales in use in RE, showing smaller steps towards the achievements expected of pupils at the end of a key stage;
- Other schools and syllabus makers will find the pyramids illustrating progression above are a useful guide to thinking and planning comprehensively and developing pupils' skills across the range of RE's aims;
- It is important that RE assessment addresses all that pupils gain from the subject appropriately. The key page of this syllabus in describing progression is page 67, where our statutory expected outcomes are described progressively.
- As the new curriculum structures are put into practice, it is expected that further work on this area will be needed, to support teachers of RE in many settings. One thing that will make such work valuable will be a close connection to emerging structures for assessing other subjects, such as Science, History or Geography.

Question 3: How can teachers of RE pinpoint aspects of the curriculum where pupils may be falling behind and also recognise exceptional performance?

- Assessment for learning: syllabus makers and teachers should establish good practice in assessment for learning for each age group, in ways that enable pupils with SEND and gifted and talented pupils to show their achievements clearly, so that next steps in learning can be planned appropriately;
- Differentiation: syllabus makers and teachers should plan RE in the light of the fact that some pupils need to work below or above their age group in order to make the best progress possible in the subject.

Question 4: How can the descriptions of expectations for the end of each key stage in RE support teachers' planning for all pupils?

- Subject leaders and teachers in RE should plan their approach to the whole key stage with the learning intentions and impact outcomes for the end of the key stage in clear view;
- Setting high expectations early in the key stage, in terms of the matters, skills and processes of RE is most likely to enable pupils to reach the highest possible standards for all groups of pupils;
- Clear planning by syllabus makers and teachers needs to deepen knowledge and understanding, to enable expression and communication and to recognise the skills pupils gain and deploy in studying religions and worldviews. Good programs of assessment will describe clear steps that lead to the end of key stage achievements.

Question 5: How can expectations for RE be used to report strengths and weaknesses of pupils' progress to parents, and to other schools and teachers upon transfer?

1. As with all subjects of the curriculum, parents are entitled to expect an annual report which clearly describes the progress and achievement of each child in relation to the programme of study in RE: annual progress reports should be given for the subject for every child.
2. Good RE reporting is individual, positive, criterion referenced, accurate and diagnostic.

Knowing about and understanding religions and worldviews

Analyse arguments cogently, justifying perspectives

Evaluate diverse beliefs, perspectives, sources of wisdom, ways of life

Appreciate and appraise different understandings of religion and worldviews

Explain the impact of and connections between ideas, practices, viewpoints

Understand ideas and practices, linking different viewpoints

Describe religions and worldviews, connecting ideas

Retell stories, suggesting meanings for sources of wisdom, for festivals and for acts of worship

Recall, name and talk about materials in RE

Examples: Knowing and understanding

These examples of the knowledge and understanding pupils gain in RE need to be read in the light of the RE requirements for each key stage, and enable the planned progression in learning that pupils need.

8. Pupils use methods from sociology of religion to analyse the ways Christian, Muslim and Sikh population patterns and community life are changing in 21st century Britain. They justify their perspectives on whether – and how - a plural society can be built peacefully and cohesively.

7. Pupils weigh up debates and arguments between agnostics, Christians and Muslims about diverse ideas about God, using philosophical methods. They evaluate the arguments of others in relation to their own ideas and viewpoints, using skills of personal and critical evaluation

6. Pupils argue for their answer to the question ‘would an omnipresent God need special places for people to worship?’ They examine the architecture of mosques, cathedrals and mandirs in the UK today, developing their appreciation and appraisal of forms and functions of varied places of worship

5. Pupils explain the impact that religious and/or spiritual experiences have had on some people from ‘eyewitness’ accounts. They give their reasons for accepting or rejecting some explanations of these events including psychological and theological explanations

4. Pupils consider some different possible meanings for two parables of Jesus, considering a range of ideas about what the parables mean to Christians today. They rank the possible interpretations, giving a reason why they consider one is a better interpretation than another.

3. Pupils select their favorite 2 or 3 ‘wise sayings’ from 10 examples drawn from different sources (Bible, Qur’an, Torah), and illustrate these sayings. They describe what each religion teaches in relation to the sayings. They describe connections between the sayings they have chosen, commenting on the idea of ‘wisdom’.

2. Pupils enact two stories. Examples could be parts of the story of Holy Week and Easter, and parts of the Divali story. They discuss the ideas and characters, and suggest what the stories mean and how they connect to festivities.

1. Pupils discover how Jewish people worship and celebrate Shabbat, for example, using the words synagogue, rest, Torah. They name the religion, and talk about what happens on Shabbat at home and in the Jewish community.

Expressing and communicating ideas relating to religions and worldviews

Synthesise their research in RE using different disciplines

Explain ideas creatively and coherently, using the main methods of religious study

Express insights into questions, giving coherent accounts of beliefs + ideas

Explain diverse ideas and viewpoints clearly in various forms

Express ideas thoughtfully in RE

Give thoughtful responses using different forms of expression in RE

Ask questions and give opinions about religions, beliefs and ideas

Observe , notice and recognise materials in RE

Examples: Expressing and communicating

These examples of the communication and expression pupils learn in RE need to be read in the light of the RE requirements for each key stage, and enable the planned progression in learning that pupils need.

8. Pupils consider the questions: Is Buddhism a religion? In what ways is Humanism like a religion? They bring together research into the two questions, critically evaluating arguments about the nature of religions and worldviews. They answer for themselves: why are you religious, or not religious? What does 'being religious' mean?

7. Pupils give coherent and thoughtful explanations of the thought and poetry of Primo Levi and Dietrich Bonhoeffer, religious thinkers persecuted under Nazism. They use historical and theological methods to evaluate the question: is it possible to believe in God after the holocaust?

6. Pupils express insights of their own in making a comparison of the influence of two Nobel Peace Prize winners. They give coherent accounts of the impact of ideas such as non-violence, pacifism and spiritual strength. They make coherent connections between the religious ideas and beliefs of the winners and the lives of these people.

5. Pupils are given 8 quotes, four which claim religion is a force for good, and four which say it does more damage than good. They use the ideas to explain their viewpoint about the question 'Is religion a force for good or not?'

4. Pupils express thoughtful ideas about the 5 Pillars of Islam, applying the general concepts of devotion to God, service of other people and self discipline to Muslim practice. They give a thoughtful idea of their own about the value of the practices.

3. Pupils discuss three religious artworks from three different centuries, considering what inspired these artists do great work that is religious. They respond by choosing examples of religious art that they find inspiring. They create expressions of their own ideas.

2. Pupils take part in a music session using songs about peace from different religions. They ask questions and say what they like about the songs' words, and what is important about peace to them. They discs what actions make peace.

1. Pupils watch a film clip of some interesting festivities at Pesach and Easter, and ask 'Who, What, When, Where, How and Why?' questions about what they have seen. They talk about the answers.

Gaining and deploying the skills for learning from religions and worldviews

Use varied disciplines of religious study to research ultimate questions

Evaluate questions and arguments personally and critically

Enquire into and interpret ideas, sources and arguments

Investigate and explain why religions and worldviews matter

Apply ideas about religions and worldviews thoughtfully

Consider and discuss questions, ideas and points of view

Collect, use and respond to ideas in RE

Notice and find out about religions and worldviews

Examples: gaining and deploying skills

These examples of the skills of religious study that pupils gain and deploy in RE need to be read in the light of the RE requirements for each key stage, and enable the planned progression in learning that pupils need.

8. Pupils use ideas from theology and philosophy to research varied answers to questions about God, discovering and expressing arguments from different viewpoints comprehensively.

7. Pupils evaluate research that finds religious people are happier than non-religious people, asking: can this be proved? What evidence is there? What explanations are there? Does this finding offer evidence in favour of religion, or does it merely imply that illusions can be comforting?

6. Pupils plan an enquiry into identity: why do millions of people identify themselves as atheists, Christians or Muslims in Britain today? They communicate their interpretations of the worldviews of others accurately.

5. Pupils investigate questions about life after death, explaining varied answers, using concepts like consciousness, soul, Nirvana or Paradise. They explain the impact of varied views about life after death on life today, expressing ideas about destiny reasonably, creatively and thoughtfully.

4. Pupils hear the stories of the giving of the Qur'an in Islam and to the birth of Jesus in Christianity. They consider what members of the religion believe these stories show. They learn the word 'revelation', and apply the idea to the stories. They discuss: what does it mean to believe in revelation?

3. Pupils consider and discuss examples of what key leaders from stories in two different faiths have done to make peace. They raise questions about peace making, giving thoughtful ideas of their own on the question: would you like to be a peace maker?

2. Pupils collect examples of living together happily both from school life and from religious stories. They offer ideas of their own to be included in a 'Recipe for living together happily.'

1. Pupils show curiosity about what Jews or Christians do each day or each week. They notice some details which interest them, and find out more from a book, an artefact, a photo or some other source.
